Jap Air Raid on U. S. Inevitable, Says Stimson

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

As Sheriff W. H. Icenhower was accompanying the grand jury from the Courthouse to the County Jail for the jury's inspection of the jail Wednesday afternoon, I noticed he carried a sizeable bundle under his arm.

He laughingly explained that it was a "Virginia" ham—a cured ham which Virginia Orihood and Roy Allen were charged with stealing from the Luther Harper premises last March, and for theft of which the pair was indicted Wednesday.

If you don't believe that shortage of tires is making a difference in travel, just listen to this:

Sunday at 2 P. M. there was just one automobile in the state-owned Logan Elm Park south of Circleville. Ordinarily there are from 10 to 20 in the parking lot at that time on a May afternoon.

From Oliver (Shorty) Tracey, now located at Portsmouth, comes the following communication addressed to Wash Fayette, that is very apropos at the present time, and should be read by everyone:

"I wonder how many of us remember 'The American Creed' Here it is:—

"THE AMERICAN CREED

"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic, a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies.

"Remember Our Creed by Buying War Stamps and Bonds. "Need I say more?"

Let me make a little prediction in this column . . . before the year is over you will see an increased number of passenger trains on the railroads to meet the growing demand for rail transportation . . . due to the automobile tire shortage.

Before the tire shortage is over, I expect to see several passenger trains on the Pennsylvania Railroad through this city, as well as restoration of regular passenger train service on the D. T. & I. and the Chillicothe-Dayton branch of the B. & O. Railroad.

Bus and train patronage is increasing by leaps and bounds, and is certain to grow to such an extent that increased service will be necessary for bus and rail lines. And, of course, if rubber becomes too scarce, bus lines will probably be laid on the shelf along with passenger cars, and eventually the railroads will be almost overwhelmed with passenger business.

Some very, very radical changes are at hand in our national transportation system, or I miss my guess.

WAKE ISLAND MEN ADOPTED BY UNION

Workers Agree To Donate Hour's Pay a Month

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP)—The 1142 American Federation of Labor workers and 80 United States sailors and marines captured by the Japanese at Wake Island have been "adopted" by the Industrial Insurance Agents Union of Boston (CIO) whose members have voted to give an hour's pay each month to buy the captives needed supplies.

The money will be used to provide the men with tobacco, shaving utensils, books and recreational facilities to be distributed in their Japanese prison camp through the International Red Cross and the YMCA.

BRAZIL PLANE GETS ONE

Damaged U. S. Warship Back
In West Indies Following
Battle in Atlantic

ST. LUCIA, BRITISH WEST INDIES, May 27.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The United States destroyer Blakeley reached port here after coming safely through an attack by a wolf pack of Axis submarines which precipitated a naval battle.

The Blakeley, crippled by a torpedo in a first submarine attack off Martinique Monday, was making the 20-mile run from Fort De France, where she put in Monday, to this island under her own power when the enemy attacked.

The detailed outcome of this battle, other than the Blakeley's escape, has not been disclosed.

It was indicated, however, that one or more German submarines had been destroyed by United States planes, but whether in this encounter or in earlier operations following the first attack on the Blakeley was not made clear.

Naval authorities have been aware that a submarine wolf pack was operating in this area; hence the multiple attack on the Blakeley was no surprise.

This made it impossible to identify any submarine destroyed as the one which made the first attack Monday, when a torpedo launched from within French equatorial waters off Martinique crippled the destroyer, on regular patrol duty off the French island.

The Blakeley is known to have suffered loss of six men killed and 12 wounded (but the dispatch did not make clear whether in Monday's attack or the second one).

During her two-day stay in Fort De France, the port of Martinique, the Blakeley was tied up alongside the French aircraft carrier Bearn, which figures prominently in current negotiations between the United States and the local Martinique authorities looking toward effective neutralization of the island.

Navy Flier Blasts Jap Warships On 'Jinx' Birthday--and Survives

By WILLIAM HIPPLE

(Wide World News Service)

ABOARD A U. S. WARSHIP WITH THE ALLIED FORCES, (Delayed)—Probably the happiest—and most relieved—man aboard this warship as it steamed away following an attack on Japanese positions in New Guinea was a certain, red-haired young aviator.

"Red" celebrated his 28th birthday in his single-seated fighter, charging at a terrific speed on enemy ships in Salamaua.

After strafing a tender and a transport, blowing up two motor-launches and raking enemy barges, the flier returned to the ship without a scratch and grinning broadly.

He had beaten the jinx which had threatened to cut short his life—a "hex" he said was put upon him by a fortune-teller years ago.

At that time, the fortune-teller forecast a number of events to take place in Red's life. He laughed at the idea, but one by one the events came true.

He began to worry. Finally, all the forecasts had come true but one—that he would not pass his 28th birthday.

The flier became obsessed with this thought. As a result, he took every precaution in his flying trips.

Feeling that the chief danger was to be lost at sea and then drift in his rubber boat, perhaps to a wild island, the ensign collected equipment to take along on every flight.

The equipment included: fish-hooks and fish-line, a hunting knife, an extra flashlight, extra ammunition, revolver, a small can of oil to keep his revolver in condition, extra patching equipment for the rubber boat, quinine, extra food rations, spare compressed air tubes for his life jacket, a waterproof cigar lighter.

He always carried a $10 bill

Yank Bomber Crew Reaches Australia After 45 Days in New Guinea Wilds

AN ALLIED OPERATIONAL BASE, Australia, May 28.—(AP)—After 45 days in New Guinea's swampy hinterlands, where their plane was forced down, a United States bomber crew of seven reached this base—tattered but smiling.

Their was the longest period of brush wandering recorded among Allied fliers.

Pilot Louis W. Ford, 22, of Los Angeles headed the doughty crew, which included two Ohioans, Lieut. John H. Disbro, 21, of Defiance and Private Robert Long of Centerburg, Knox County.

Lieut. Edward S. Ashley, San Antonio, Tex., and Privates J. E. Ochs, Lancaster, Pa., J. A. Roberts, Kingston, Pa., and W. F. Loranger, Saginaw, Mich.

Cleanly-cooked food and American cigarettes quickly erased the unpleasant recollections of malaria and tropical ulcers from which the aviators suffered during their travels among native tribes.

Pilot Ford explained that the bomber was crippled by Japanese anti-aircraft fire after it "got what we went after at Rabaul." The craft limped away on only one engine, sometimes less than 100 feet above water.

"We came down a few miles inland on a marsh," said Ford. "The only clear spot we could find had a tree in the middle. The field was covered with cane grass, which is pretty good for skidding. We hit going more than 100 miles an hour, skidded around a hundred yards and wrapped a wing around the tree."

Food dropped to them by an Allied plane fell too far away to be recovered.

Ford, Disbro and Long waded waist-deep in swamp water to a river, found a native canoe and paddled to a coastal village.

"The natives were very friendly," said Disbro. "They gave us pawpaws, bananas and coconuts."

WEST COAST IS ON ALERT

Retaliation for Bombing of Japanese Cities Believed
'Not Inconceivable'

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson said today the War Department considered a Japanese air raid on the United States to be inevitable as a return blow for Brig. General James H. Doolittle's attack on Tokyo and other Japanese cities.

The secretary told his press conference the army was doing everything possible to meet the expected attack, which he indicated was anticipated on the west coast.

"Whatever happens, we shan't relax our most effective defense—our preparations for a major offensive," he said.

Stimson also told a questioner that despite the great distance the east coast lies from Japan, an attack on the national capital was "not inconceivable." He did not discuss the possibility of attacks by Japan's Axis partners.

The "loss of face" Japan suffered from the army air attack led by General Doolittle made a vengeance blow inevitable, Stimson contended.

"The United States, through General Doolittle, inflicted a stinging, humiliating, surprising blow on the Japanese as evidenced by their bombing of Japan's invulnerability at the very time the bombers came over," the secretary said.

"To anyone who knows oriental psychology, it is clear that attack has meant a most serious 'loss of face' which by

Louis B. Mayer Heads List

U. S. Get Over $25,000

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—(AP)—Louis B. Mayer, the 57-year-old Russian-born movie executive who began his career as a Massachusetts theater operator, topped the field of America's highest paid executives again last year with an income of $704,425.60 as managing director of production for Loew's, Inc.

Trailing far behind Mayer, who received $37,373 more than in 1940 and whose 1941 remuneration included $548,425.60 as either bonus or share in profits, were a host of other motion picture executives, actors and actresses, industrialists and businessmen, a survey of annual reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission showed today.

Clark Gable, motion picture star, received $357,500 from Loew's for second place, and Nicholas M. Schenck was paid $334,204.54 as president and director of Loew's.

Many of the annual reports, however, have been held up by the SEC for possible censorship purposes. Included in this group are Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, who was second in 1940 with $478,144, and other top ranking steel masters whose firms are engaged in war production.

The figures do not represent the largest incomes in the United States since many persons who serve with small salaries or no salaries have big returns from investments.

Scores of the remunerations were well over the $25,000 which President Roosevelt told congress last month ought to represent a limit on individual net incomes for the duration of the war.

Lieut.-Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, commander of the U. S. Army service of supply, declared in London today that United States stands ready to supply "men and materials on large scale to a European battlefield," even as Adolf Hitler's field headquarters claimed victory in the critical 17-day-old battle south of Kharkov.

Gen. Somervell's statement coinciding with a rising British clamor for direct action against Germany, said the United States was able to send men and supplies despite the shipping shortage and large commitments in Australia and India.

Russia frequently has urged Britain and the United States to open a second front against Hitler's armies this summer.

While the bloody battle of Kharkov swirled toward a climax, Britain's desert armies struggled against a furious new Axis offensive in North Africa, a drive aimed at Egypt and the green valley of the Nile.

British headquarters said tanked Axis thrusts had been repulsed on both flanks of the Libyan battle scene, but an RAF communiqué acknowledged that Axis mechanized forces had advanced within 15 miles of the main British stronghold at Tobruk.

The RAF said British fliers bombed the enemy throughout yesterday in the El Adem and Bir Hacheim areas.

El Adem is 15 miles south of Tobruk; Bir Hacheim 50 miles southeast.

On the Soviet front, the Russians reported that the Germans were staging "psychological attacks" in which the Nazis charged

CHICAGO POLICEMAN LINKED WITH THEFT

Man Held Confesses He Stole

CINCINNATI, May 28.—(AP)—Theft of $3,000 in men's suits from a Lebanon store, May 20, was solved today, police reported, with a confession from a suspect who charged that an unidentified Chicago police officer was involved in the operation of a "fence" in that city.

Captain Patrick Hayes, acting detective chief, said Earl "Red" Lutes, 32, of nearby Covington, Ky., confessed he was one of three men who entered the store of S. Hyman & Sons, then disposed of the loot to the Chicago ring.

"But be careful if you try to knock them off," Hayes quipped him as saying. "A Chicago policeman is interested in the joint."

Lutes, charged with burglary, refused to name his companions or the Chicago man. He was taken to Lebanon.

Workers Are To Be 'Frozen' to Jobs To Prevent 'Pirating' By Employers

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Hundreds of thousands of essential workers are forbidden to change jobs in war industries under government orders being drawn up today to stop "pirating" of skilled men by rival manufacturers.

Orders being prepared by the war manpower commission for immediate issuance make the United States employment service the "sole hiring agency for critical skills in critical areas."

The effect will be to prevent workers from changing from one plant to another without approval of the government agency.

A spokesman for the manpower commission said labor "pirating" through offers of higher pay had become so widespread, especially in the aircraft industry, that it interfered with war production.

The manpower commission also drafted plans for classification of war plants according to their urgency and for a system of manpower priorities. Local draft boards will be asked to consult with federal employment service offices in deciding on deferments of war workers.

QUESTIONNAIRES URGED

ANOTHER OFFICE IS SET UP FOR CANNING SUGAR

Stamp No. 2 in Ration Book Not Good for Sugar for Home Use After May 30

In anticipation of a heavy demand for sugar for canning, the Fayette County Rationing Board is taking steps to make everything as convenient as possible for the public, Ralph R. Penn, the county's rationing coordinator, said Thursday afternoon.

Applications can now be made for canning sugar at the offices of the board in the Court-house here, at the Stuckey Hardware Store in Jeffersonville and at the Township Hall in Good Hope, Penn said that the office had been set up in Good Hope in the belief that it would serve the people in the southern part of the county just as would the one in Jeffersonville serve the people in the northern section.

Mrs. J. O. Fountain has been put in charge of the Good Hope office, Penn said, and Mrs. Charles Gordon has been named to assist her. The office will be in shape to receive application between 3 P. M. and 8:30 P. M. until next Thursday, Saturday excluded. After then, the chairman will announce the hours for the future.

At Jeffersonville, W. G. Stuckey was put in charge of the sub-office with Mrs. Donald Porter and Richard Davis as his assistants. That office, Penn said, would be open from 1 P. M. to 8 P. M. every day until June 21.

As he announced the expansion of the sugar rationing service, Penn called attention to the fact that Stamp No. 2 in the War Ration Book—that calling for sugar for home use—could not be used for the purchase of the allowed one pound of sugar after Saturday (May 30). Stamp No. 3 is good for a pound of sugar (not for canning) from June 1 to June 13.

DECISION GIVEN IN COURT CASES

Judge Rankin Decides Two Actions Heard as One

Judge H. M. Rankin has handed down decisions in two cases recently tried before him, involving a comparatively small sum of money.

Both cases were styled Herbert Bowshier against G. C. Williams, with W. S. Paxson representing the plaintiff and C. S. Hire, the defendant in both actions, and were heard together.

In the first case Judge Rankin awarded the plaintiff $9 damages, growing out of possession of certain goods and chattels most of which had been turned over to the plaintiff, except 19 bales of soy beans hay.

In the second case, $50 was awarded the plaintiff.

percent of all pork produced during the next several months, at least. This is a larger percentage than the agency has bought so far in 1942.

Such a program inevitably leads to speculation on pork rationing. Many in the trade believe "self-rationing" is assured.

When packers pro-rate the amount of meat they supply to various retail outlets, that is "self-rationing." It always happens in a temporary shortage, and presumably could be applied over a longer period. Under "self-rationing" the housewife is not compelled to carry a ration book, but she may find her favorite butcher has no pork to sell.

ADVISORY BOARD PLANS HOLIDAY

Draft Questionnaires To Be Filled Out Monday—Room To Be Closed Saturday

Associate members of the advisory board of the Selective Service Board, who have been helping registrants of the February 16 class fill out questionnaires at the Memorial Hall will observe Memorial Day Saturday as a holiday, W. L. O'Brien, the chairman, said Thursday.

The room will be closed all day Saturday, O'Brien said, but explained that arrangements had been made to finish up the work on Monday.

Saturday will be the deadline for this group of registrants, he declared, but inasmuch as that is a national holiday the time had been extended one day. He emphasized that "all questionnaires must be filled out not later than Monday."

The associate members of the advisory board, he said, could expect to be called for help later on.

The board will be on duty to give registrants help Friday afternoon, O'Brien said.

The chairman did not say what plans had been made by the subordinate boards, located at strategic places over the county, regarding the Saturday holiday. It was presumed, however, that they would take the day off also.

This also implied that the findings might be made public after tonight's meeting. To outward appearances, they resembled treasury testimony a few years ago on methods used by wealthy persons to evade taxes by incorporating yachts, personal holding companies and other elaborate devices.

At least 21 seamen lost their lives and 36 persons were missing in the latest outbreak of sea warfare officially disclosed which told of the destruction of five more merchant vessels in Atlantic waters by Axis torpedoes.

On the other side of the ledger, Brazilian sources said that in addition to two submarines recently reported sunk another undersea craft had surrendered to Allied forces.

The vessels lost by the United Nations included a medium-sized U. S. merchant ship, a Greek freighter, a New England fishing vessel, a medium-sized British merchantman and a Dutch freighter.

GOOD CROWDS OUT FOR CARNIVAL HERE

May Be Last for Some Time, Manager Says

The carnival now showing on the "Old Fairground" on Columbus Avenue may be the last to come here for some time, said W. S. Curl, Thursday afternoon, as he pointed to the gasoline and tire rationing and its far reaching possibilities.

Curl said that the five shows and 30 concessions along the gaudy Midway have been drawing "unusually large crowds. He attributed the good attendance to the public impression that "this may be the last" until after the war.

Curl said the carnival would wind up its stay here on Memorial Day and that an afternoon matinee would be one of the features. It will, Curl added, be open at night also.

NAZIS SEEK TO TIE UP ALLIES IN MEDITERRANEAN

WAR OF NERVES CREATED BUT IT HAS HANDICAPS

Laval Has Delivered Little More Than Trouble to Hitler—and No Fleet

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT (Wide World News Service)

The Mediterranean situation is full of unpleasant military possibilities, and it would be dangerous to disregard any of them. Yet the current dickerings of Germany, Italy and the dismal Vichy "government" of Pierre Laval have created such a smoke-screen of rumor that it may be well to look at the realities as they are known.

These are facts, as separated from futilities:

Germany: Her primary pre-occupation is and must continue to be Russia. It is, however, to her advantage to immobilize in the western Mediterranean the greatest possible number of United Nations aircraft, warships and machines. Because of her vast needs in the east, Germany wants to do this (a) by a nerve war and by military feints (b) by using the men and equipment of her allies, or vassals, to do as much of the actual fighting as is necessary. She could, of course use the French war fleet to considerable advantage in the Mediterranean, but the report that she is planning to man them with German crews must be accepted with considerable reserve. It must be remembered she has taken no such action with regard to the hideaway Italian battle-ships. It is not certain, either, that she has the trained personnel or the oil to spare.

France: Pierre Laval, so far, has actually delivered to the Germans little more than trouble, although that certainly was not his intention. The French generally detest him and regard with dismay the way his regime has antagonized the United States and brought the new territorial demands from the despised Italians, have shown a new upsurge of the internal resistance to "collaboration." Laval has, in fact, proved to France that the Vichy "government" can govern nothing.

Italy: The Blackshirts' greed for French territory never has been far below the surface; it was, however, shushed by Germany as long as it appeared that Vichy might be able to trouse some popular French support for "collaboration." Whatever Germany will do about it now, there is no doubt of her anxiety to settle the question. It is keeping at least 300,000 well-equipped Italian troops in comfortable mobilization on the French Alps Maritime border, when they might be dying for the "New Order" below Kharkov. It is interesting also that Italy, once vociferous for "Tunisia, Corsica, Nice," now has lost her desire for Tunisia, while the French, probably on German suggestion, hint they are willing to discuss.

Why? Corsica and Nice have no military or economic importance to Germany. Should the Italians get title, however, they would be pleased to devote their national energies to "occupying" them. But Tunisia—it is practically in the North African battle

SALES INCREASING IN THIS COUNTY

Inroads Made in Revenues Of the State

Sales of prepaid tax receipts, exclusive of motor and tire sales, are showing slight gains in Fayette County as indicated by the latest report, although the sales are not up to the total of a year ago when motor sales were included.

For the week ending May 16, total sales were $2,282.02 compared with $2,620.48 last year during the same time.

So far the total sales have reached $37,608.53 compared with $43,150.29 for the same period last year.

In the state continued losses in the sale of prepaid sales tax receipts are making marked inroads in revenues.

During the past week revenues derived from this source amounted to $1,049,389.40 as compared with $1,202,751.97 during the comparable week of 1941, a net loss of $153,362.57, the Treasurer of State's report reveals.

Three of the eight classifications found themselves in the "red" — automotive slumping from $364,715.25 to $102,561.60; furniture, from $81,654.99 to $76,722.03; and building, from $84,544.54 to $79,716.65.

BLACKBERRIES BLOOM EARLIER THAN USUAL

There is an old saying that if it rains on June 2 it will spoil the blackberry crop, but this year there is little danger of this, even if it rains all day.

The reason is that blackberries have bloomed unusually early this year, and that most of the bloom, which might be damaged by rain on June second, will have vanished by that time.

Residents of the hill communities are predicting an unusually big crop of blackberries if the season continues favorable.

UNPLEASANT SUSPICIONS

Even in the midst of war, one has to take time out to marvel at the versatile John L. Lewis. Never a man to be bound by consistency, this time he has achieved the ultimate in paradox. He is going—or hopes to organize employers.

In the whole history of trades unionism, nothing like this ever before has happened. Here is a top ranking labor boss, a man to whom employers have been lifelong anathema, deliberately setting out to organize the backbone of American capitalism, the farmers.

He is saying frankly, positively, and even belligerently, that he doesn't give a tinker's damn about the farm laborers. All he wants is the owners, the managers, the entrepreneurs who up to now have been untouchable in the trades union program.

Mr. Lewis is not organizing the farmers to work shorter hours themselves, to give their employees shorter work weeks, to improve conditions or agricultural labor, to promote any of those social goals which organized labor customarily demands.

Not at all. He wants the employing farmers to obtain a greater profit from the production and sale of milk, through higher prices.

The more one thinks about this latest Lewis venture, the more one becomes convinced that there is something more than shows on the surface.

In dealing with so devious a mind as Mr. Lewis', it is not safe to leap at conclusions. It is permissible, however, to point out a few considerations which the self-proclaimed protagonist of the nation's farmers can hardly have missed.

More than 30 million Americans live on farms. A large proportion of these own from one cow to hundreds, and sell milk. Perhaps an equal number, in rural villages, depend for their living upon the farmers' trade.

There are close to seven million individual farms. Unlike industry and commerce, farming is a business which has more owners than hired hands.

Being very vulgar, one may point out that in organizing industry, the gravy comes from millions of workers rather than from thousands of owners. But on farms the reverse is true.

Moreover, being in suspicious mood today, one notes that if perchance Mr. Lewis had political ambitions—if he desired either votes for himself or the control over votes—there are perhaps 10 millions in the hands of the nation's dairy farmers, but relatively few cast by agricultural hired hands.

Perhaps Mr. Lewis, softened by

Flashes of Life

SANTA, FE, N. M.—(P)—A man who had been living with his common law wife 15 years, and had seven children, appeared before the draft board.

New Mexico law does not recognize such a union, and the board chairman suggested a wedding might be in order.

"I've been thinking about that," admitted the registrant, "but I didn't want anyone to think I got married just to avoid the draft."

DENVER.—(P)—Captain Harvey H. Hinman can keep a secret as well as he can fly a plane. The captain visited his wife a week ago, but she never knew he had piloted one of the American bombers that raided Japan April 18 until she read about in the papers.

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(P)—U. S. Naval Training Station officers advised a long-haired recruit to "get a haircut or get a violin." The recruit did both.

He was Toscha Seidel, internationally known concert violinist.

The 43-year-old Russian-born Virtuoso, who has been featured with the Philadelphia, Los Angeles and New York Philharmonic Orchestras, recently enlisted in the Navy.

He will see action, for the present, at least, as featured soloist with Leon Leonardi's band on the training station's "Anchors Aweigh" radio program.

Family life is one of the most absorbing interests of the person who is celebrating a birthday today. He or she is generous, determined and self-reliant, liking to have gay friends about them and to entertain them in the home. Mixed influences affect such a person in the coming year. A deceptive or elusive element in business affairs and friendship will cause worry, despite financial benefits and much social activity. Many hindrances and set-backs will be experienced by the child who is born under these influences. These handicaps will often come through relatives and secret opposition, but eventual good fortune and happiness are assured.

beatings he has taken, really has been moved by the plight of the dairymen, and for purely unselfish reasons has laid aside his crusade in behalf of industrial workers and gone to the farmers' sector.

That could be the answer. But from this corner, it has all the odor of very unpalatable baloney.

Factors That Impair Human Machine at Work

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

YESTERDAY we inquired into the physiological definition of work as performed by that not very efficient machine, the human body. We found there were three classes of work—maximal, heavy and moderate; that maximal work could only be performed for a very short time; that rest periods were imperative; that heavy work might be maintained for eight hours, but that rest periods made for economy and that moderate work—which is what most factory laborers perform—makes little drain on reserve muscular energy, oxygen consumption, heart rate and blood pressure.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Today we wish to inquire into the things that impair the human machine in attaining maximum efficiency and how they can be overcome. Naturally this will concern mostly the subject of moderate muscular work. We have already said that maximum work cannot be performed without long rest periods and there is more efficiency in heavy work with short rest periods interspersed.

The situation can be illustrated by the example of factory workers who work standing at benches and using small groups of muscles of the hands and arms. It must also be remembered that they use the muscles of the eyes. These people do not become fatigued on account of an excessive strain put upon the whole muscular system nor on account of strain on the heart and blood pressure. Very slight adjustments in physiological processes are required.

They become fatigued because of the strain of standing, which alone is fatiguing, and also because of the constitution of the nervous system which becomes tired from making repetitious movements and strain from the eyes. In other words, if a machine could do this work, it would never have to stop until the parts actually wore out or unless it became overheated. But since the human body has a nervous system attached to its machinery, fatigue and reduced efficiency in productivity inevitably take place.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE
AS TIBBY opened the tiny box from the jeweler's, her heart beat rapidly, pounding against her ribs. This might have been caused by anticipation as to what the box would reveal. A girl surely should feel all fluttery upon first viewing her engagement ring. Or it might have been apprehension, since Tibby's emotions seemed composed more of anxiety than joy.

They changed—whatever these emotions had been—to amazement as she caught her breath and gazed at the beautiful ring that rested in its white satin inclosure. Tibby had never seen such a magnificent ring. It was an enormous, flawless pearl surrounded by sapphires and set in an exquisite mounting of platinum. Tibby dared not even try to surmise how much it had cost, a king's ransom in her eyes.

She did not—as might have been expected, had she been that flutty girl whose rapid heart spelled joy—slip it on her finger to hold it off, twisting her hand, the better to see how it would look and feel. She could not imagine such a ring on her plain little hand, a hand that bore a few freckles from the sun and wind, and blunt fingers that, although carefully tended, did not flash bright polish of some fashionable shade. That was the sort of hand, long, scarlet-tipped, tapering fingers, soft and white, that should set off the magnificence of such a ring, a hand like Steena's, for instance, a hand coached in graceful gestures and attitudes that would be expected to preserve its softness with lotions and gloves, to lie folded upon a silken lap. It should not be a plain little brown hand that weathered frost and sun, was indifferent to callouses and blisters. A ring, such as this, would be inconsistent upon her hand; it would not look as if it belonged there at all. It would be heavy and uncomfortable, as well as out of place.

Oh, dear, why had Wayne bought such a ring! Couldn't he see that Tibby never would be happy wearing it? Didn't he realize how unsuitable it was for her? She felt ungrateful, wretched, but that was the way it was, although she supposed she not only would have to wear it, but she would have to pretend to like it, to be simply wild about it, in fact.

There was a note with the tiny box, a tiny card in a tiny envelope, of the sort the jeweler would supply. On it Wayne had scribbled a hasty line. "My sweet, I would prefer to put this on your finger myself, but I must be away for a few days. Please wear it all the time. With my love."

It was signed with his initials, W. C., as he always signed all office notations and bulletins. They were big bold initials that signified their importance even in his brevity, as did the accompanying messages which were commands to be carried out.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Reader:—How many calories are in beer? How does it affect people on a diet?

Answer: A bottle of beer contains about 200 calories. Beer, on account of its alcoholic and carbohydrate content, has one of the highest caloric values of any of the beverages. As to what it does to a diet, I presume you mean a reducing diet. It blows it all to smithereens.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Venereal Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

AAA TO MAKE SURVEY ON FOOD-FOR-FREEDOM

COLUMBUS, May 28.—(P)—The agricultural adjustment administration will conduct a survey to determine the progress of the food-for-freedom campaign, in Ohio, Elmer F. Kruse, state AAA chairman, reported today.

Farmer representatives of the AAA will meet in every county Thursday to receive instructions on procedure for the check, he said.

The survey probably will disclose impediments such as local farm labor shortages or lack of necessary machinery, Kruse added.

ried out to the most minute detail. "Put this on your finger . . . wear it all the time." The note—or notation—did not ask if she liked receiving such an order, or its way of presentation, or even the ring itself. It just told her what she was expected to do.

Tibby was glad that Wayne would be away for a few days. Surely she need not start obeying that order until his return. That would allow her a little time, a brief respite. She was glad, also, that he had not waited to put the ring on her finger himself. She would not have been able to have met that moment. Now she could, at least, try to be prepared to meet it, for of course she would have to pretend to be delighted with the ring. She wished she could be honest and tell Wayne how she really felt about it, but she knew that she could not.

She could not tell him honestly, bluntly, that she was not sure she loved him enough to marry him, that she was afraid she never would fit into his world. If she was going to be his wife, she would have to wear the jewels he chose for her, whether they were becoming or fitting or not.

She put the ring, in its little box with the white satin lining, away in her dresser drawer. If she had had a safe she would have locked it up. She even felt apprehensive about keeping it. It was a weight, though it was not on her hand, a burden, even shut out of sight. Suppose someone found it or stole it or that it somehow got lost?

She hoped that Wayne had had it insured.

These, then, were the emotions Tibby felt about her beautiful engagement ring. In a way they were comparable, although different, to Steena's feelings when, coming in from her flight later that day, she found the other small box awaiting her. Her heart beat rapidly, too, as she opened it, with a mixture of anticipation and apprehension. That changed, as Tibby's had, to amazement when Steena saw the contents.

Lake Tibby, she did not try on the gift she had received. She did not even remove it from the box. She read the few lines that Wayne had scribbled hastily on the white card. Then she tore it into shreds and threw it away. She put the box away, too, in the corner of a suitcase kept underneath her bed. Apparently she did not intend to wear what she had been given—maybe she did not want to accept it. Perhaps, again like Tibby, she wished herself to put this on your finger myself, but I must be away for a few days. Please wear it all the time. With my love."

However, unlike Tibby, Steena did SOMETHING about it right away, what she might have called "taking steps." She would have to give Wayne some direct and challenging answer to this gift: her pride demanded that. She would have to show him that she did not care that he had written, in those few hastily scribbled lines, that everything was over forever between them.

She went to the corner drug store, not taking time to change from her uniform, since she was driven to do something so quickly, in her bitter disappointment and despair. Steena did not call it heart break; she was too angry and proud for that. She would get even with Wayne Courtwright if it were the last thing she ever did, for letting her think there had been hopes that that gift might have been a solitaire, for taking her out so many evenings, for choosing her as the company's publicity hostess, for having kissed her and told her how beautiful she was . . . yes, for breaking her heart.

Steena knew that she loved him, now that she had lost him. It was Wayne whose loss she minded, not the loss of all his money, the things he could have given her. Millions were not the most important thing, after all. They were nice to have, but Steena knew now, as she dialed the number of the clinic where she hoped to reach young Dr. Dare, to ask him to come out this evening, that even without all his riches Wayne Courtwright was the one, the only one for her.

"May I speak with Dr. Dare, please? It is VERY important." A matter of life and death, her hammering heart might have tacked on, although not the sort of life-and-death matter that might have been expected. "I love you, Wayne—I let you know it—you made me think you cared for me—and now you say it is all over," she thought. "Here is a little farewell gift, my beloved," for so Wayne had written, although not in those exact words—"a little remembrance to hang around your fair neck to remind you of the hours we spent together, of me . . ."

"Hello, is that you, Tommy?" Steena's voice, if her heart was bleeding, sounded as cool as usual, as determined. "I want you to come out tonight. Yes, it's very important. Yes, I have something to tell you. So, it's what you want to hear." So many yeses, but he would not give her time to explain, because she supposed he carried a bleeding heart as well as she. "Yes, Tibby's okay, she's fine. Yes, it's about her, in a way—about the plan I spoke of the last time. But I can't tell you over the wire, Tommy. You'll come? Suppose you meet me here, in the corner drug store, at 8 o'clock." She must see him before Tibby did, even for a moment. She must MAKE him do what she wanted, carry through her plan.

She had to make him, she thought as she hung up. That would be the only possible way out now, the only means to mend her heart.

Career Queens Didn't Strip To Conquer

By ADELAIDE KERR

(Wide World News Service)

Burlesque's striptease queens used to make a lot of money letting their slips show. But now that their shows have slipped—since New York's mayor closed burlesque—they are collecting careers and bankbooks in other ways.

Margie Hart has headed for Hollywood under contract. She hopes for a movie career in costumes that will top anything she ever achieved in burlesque without them. Margie "considered" the movies once before, but she says she dropped the idea because she felt it was too embarrassing kissing a stranger in front of a camera.

Margie was just a little farm girl from Missouri, virtually hidden in the back line of a Chicago burlesque chorus, "til one night she was posing as the Statue of Liberty and her clothes caught fire. That somehow put the striptease idea in the director's mind and before long Margie was a star to the tune of more than $1,000 a week. In time she moved on to New York, collecting fame and bankbooks until Mayor LaGuardia banned burlesque.

Ann Corio, whose figure makes a model agency look like a very dull place, has abandoned burlesque for both screen and stage. She will soon make her second Hollywood picture and then will return to the east to star in summer theaters in a new play written for her.

Gypsy Rose Lee, most famous stripteaseuse of them all, has graduated from burlesque magnificence to the movies and then turned to writing books. She has turned out one mystery, "The G-String Murders," and is working on a second.

A shoulder strap which slipped in a Kansas City vaudeville show launched Gypsy on her striptease act which she combined with a lively patter. The fans used to say Gypsy made the only intellectual approach to striptease. She has not abandoned it either. Her shoulder strap will soon be slipping again in a new show, "Star and Garter," set for late summer production at the Music Box in New York.

A number of other striptease queens have found other careers too. Carol Lord has turned to the beauty business. She is buying equipment and expects soon to open a hair-dressing shop in a New York hotel. Jessica Rogers, the newest favorite, moved from Minsky's burlesque to one of the smartest nightclubs in Manhattan.

There is not a great deal of difference between her new act and her old one, except that in the new one she speaks lines. The famous Roxanne is now married to the vaudeville comedian, Red Buttons, and is doing her bit for Uncle Sam by selling war bonds. Valerie Parks hopes to speed up her flying lessons and perhaps get a job as a ferry pilot.

Though burlesque has been closed in New York and some other eastern cities, burlesque big shots are not blue about the future of striptease. They say the burlesque ban will probably last only "for the duration" and that the girls are stripteasing in burlesque shows throughout the country. They believe that stripteasing is not dead in New York either and that showmen will find ways to keep it alive on stage and in nightclubs if not in burlesque.

Victoria Otis Is Given Pretty Birthday Party

One of the gayest and most delightful affairs among the curriculum of society events of this spring was the lovely party given by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Otis, Tuesday evening, commemorating their daughter, Victoria, on her fourteenth birthday.

The spacious Otis home was an ideal setting for the happy occasion, for which thirty-five members of the junior set gathered to enjoy the hospitalities and pleasures extended to them.

The home was radiant in its profusion of spring flowers. Gorgeously arranged bouquets of blue flags, white snapdragons and huge red peonies were admired throughout the spacious rooms, and leant their beauty and fragrance to the spring evening.

The pretty young guest of honor, who is gifted in charm and poise, received her guests in a blue and white cotton print, with red, white and blue belt, most becoming to her deep brunette beauty. In her brown tresses, was a red rose.

A delicious buffet-supper was served from the dining table, lovely in its appointments of a patriotic motif. A snowy white linen cloth covered the table, and a watergarden of exquisite red roses, baby breath and blue ragged robin made an exceptionally beautiful centerpiece, flanked with four blue tapers in silver holders. The guests found their places at small tables arranged in the handsome rooms, and enjoyed the supper of viands particularly appealing to young appetites.

Following the supper the young guests presented Miss Otis with a radio-victrola combination in remembrance of her birthday, for which she made happy response. Dancing to this and to the popular piano playing of Mrs. Ralph Gage was greatly enjoyed during the evening. A merry feature, causing much hilarity, was the scavenger hunt interrupting the dancing. The ideas, the clever demands, caused no limit of gaiety. Prizes of Defense Stamps were presented to Miss Beverly Long and Mr. Robert McGinnis.

The young people lingered until a late hour, reluctant to dismiss such a jolly affair, and thanking their very cordial host and hostess and honor guest for an evening to be long remembered.

Mrs. Coberly Is Hostess
Mrs. Joseph Coberly added another delightful small affair Tuesday evening, to the series she has given this spring.

Three tables of cards were in play throughout the evening, with the very gracious hostess extending lovely hospitalities.

Bridge prizes of unusual and most attractive types were presented to Mrs. Ray West and Mrs. Warren Brannon.

A salad course was served at the small tables at the close of the evening.

under his identification tag and a picture of his girl friend, for good luck. He recently took out additional life insurance and left money for the premium with a shipmate. He studied up on the best method to battle a shark.

Just before the New Guinea attack, he added several new items to his collection, including cufflinks, shiny uniform buttons and various trinkets to trade to the natives on the island should he be forced down. From the gallery, he secured a meat cleaver to hack his way through the jungles.

Much of this equipment he carried continually, because he never knew which plane he would fly. For that reason he was nicknamed "Pauncho" by his fellow aviators "because he bulged in places."

By a peculiar circumstance, an attack against Jap positions in New Guinea fell on his 28th birthday—the supposed deadline of his life.

"I thought I'd make it," he said as he climbed out of his plane, "but I'm sure glad it's over. Now I've got nothing to worry about."

DECORATION DAY

Decoration Day is almost here. It only comes but once a year. Let's you and I show our love and pride.

For the boys who fought in the war and died.

They gave their lives that ours be free.

So let's not shriek neither you nor me.

But shower their graves with flowers so sweet.

And march in the parade with drums that beat.

Think of the boys that are fighting today.

To help us keep the U.S.A.

Let's do our part in the good old way.

Buy defense stamps and bonds, buy more I say.

Buy just as many as you can buy And see the boys come home on high.

Let them say, we'll win, we'll win you bet.

We haven't yet, but we will, by heck!

Joann Giebelhaus, Emmitt Lloyd Wed Wednesday

A quiet home wedding, beautiful in its simplicity, was performed Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Giebelhaus, uniting in marriage their only daughter, Joann, and Mr. Emmitt E. Lloyd, son of Mrs. Bernard Matson. The single ring ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. W. H. Wilson, of the First Baptist Church, in the presence of the immediate families.

For her marriage, the bride wore an air spun cotton made with a white torso bodice and flowered plaited skirt, most becoming to her titian beauty. Her flowers were a corsage of talisman roses, yellow daisies and baby breath. Her maid of honor, Miss Jacqueline Allemang, wore a striking linen suit of chocolate brown, with white accessories. Her flowers were of yellow roses and white sweet peas.

Mr. Langdon McCoy acted as best man for Mr. Lloyd. Following the ceremony, was an informal reception, confined to the witnesses. The table was beautifully appointed and centered with a long, low basket of pink and white roses. Tall white cathedral candles illuminated the room. Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd left on a several days motoring trip. Upon their return the groom is going to Puerto Rico, where the bride will join him later.

The bride was graduated from Washington High School in the class of '41 and is now employed at Patterson Field.

Mrs. Avann Complimented

Adding to the parties complimenting Mrs. Orpha Cheney Avann who is visiting here from Chicago, Illinois, Mr. Wert Shoop and his sister, Mrs. Otis Morrow, were a congenial host and hostess to a delightful affair Wednesday evening.

A delicious course dinner was served at seven o'clock, with the guests seated at a beautifully appointed table. The centerpiece was of distinct beauty, being an elegant silver bowl with exquisite deep red roses. White taper holders flanked this.

The guests included with the honor guest were Mr. and Mrs. David S. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harper and Miss Edith Gardner.

Picturesque Party Staged In Sunnyside Auditorium by Girls' Athletic Association

Beautiful Party Fetes Mothers as Guests; Miss Allenbaugh Is Principal Speaker Of Evening

One of the jolliest and most picturesque parties of the closing school season was given in the Sunnyside auditorium Wednesday evening, when the girls of the GAA entertained their mothers at a beautiful banquet.

The mothers and daughters were seated at two long tables forming a V, with a long table at the end at which sat the speakers and the present and incoming officers of the club. The tables were a picture of patriotic beauty, with crystal bowls of blue iris, red roses, and white syringa centering them, and marked with attractive placards. At the mothers' places were lovely boutonniere corsages, favors from the girls.

A delicious course dinner was served at the close of which Clarice Loidl, a most gracious as well as a poised toastmistress, open the program introducing Wanda Smith, this year's president. She in turn made a graceful speech welcoming the new president, Patti Maddox, who responded with a few well chosen words, accepting the duties of the new office.

Miss Loidl then introduced Miss Sara Keck, whose readings are always thoroughly enjoyable and she very entertainingly gave several selections, both dramatic and humorous, which added to the pleasures of the program.

Miss Naomi Allenbaugh, instructor in Physical Department, of Ohio State University, was the guest speaker of the evening, choosing for her subject "Personality," taking each letter of the word to define the requisite attributes needed in athletics. She also passed around large photographs, showing the girls at the university, engaged in the various sports activities. Her talk was both interesting and inspiring to the girls.

A hilarious skit, entitled "The Murder of Maggie" was presented on the stage by a number of the girls, which brought forth much laughter from both the audience and the actors, and was most entertaining.

Miss Janet Allen, physical education instructor, then presented the numerals to those who had made their 225 points or more up to the close of the school year. They were Marjorie Hyer, Nancy James, Mary Sexton, Carol McCoy, Helen Adams, June Denton, Clarice Loidl, Frances McDonald, Marie Marchant, Virginia Anschutz and Margaret Johnson.

Letters for 425 points were presented to Betty Burr, Virginia Craig, Frances McDonald, Carol McCoy, Mary Sexton, Nancy James, Marie Marchant, Martha Hughes and Wilma Self.

The Senior class received the G. A. A. trophy for the most outstanding work in intramurals.

The evening was interspersed with numerous songs in which both girls and mothers joined heartily, and was brought to a fitting climax and closed by all singing "The Star Spangled Banner." Miss Joyce Gardner accompanied on the piano, and Miss Mary Lou Follis was a capable song leader.

'THE SUNBURST' OF WHS FOR 1942 NOW OFF PRESS

Modernistic Cover—Inside Is Replete with Word and Picture School Record

The Washington C. H. High School annual, "The Sunburst," has come off the press and is being distributed to students and teachers this week.

The cover is of a very modernistic design done in blue on a grayish-white background. In one corner is a likeness of a big lion pressed into the leather. Across the middle of the cover is the word "Sunburst" with the 1942 below it.

The annual includes individual pictures of all students from the seventh grade through the twelfth. Class officers and group pictures of each club are included. The Senior Class History was written by Charles Boylan, the Prophecy by Janis Carlson and the Class Will by Tom Buchanan. The history of each class was written beside the pictures by a member of the class.

Ann Robinson was the editor of the year book this year and Loring Brock the business manager. Other members of the staff were: John Babbitt, circulation manager; William Ashley, art editor; Charles Rhoads and Thomas Buchanan, assistant salesmen; Anna Varlas and Jean Wikle, typists and John Adams and John Anderson, photographers. The faculty advisor is Robert A. Auginbaugh.

The Sunburst was printed again this year by the commercial printing department of the Record-Herald. J. E. Magley, manager of the department, said, as he delivered the 1942 Sunburst that, with the exception of one year, the WHS annual had been printed here for the last 20 years.

To Release Flow Of LIVER BILE

Normally about a quart of digestion-aiding bile should be discharged into the intestines every 24 hours. A scanty flow—a slowing-up may cause sick headaches, bowel sluggishness and so-called bilious indigestion with its "half-sick" sour depressed feeling.

If you suffer from such symptoms because you need more bile released from the gall-bladder, try world famous Kruschen Salts. Get a bottle tonight—start right in tomorrow morning and take as much as will lie on a dime in a glass of water (hot or cold) half an hour before breakfast, or in your morning cup of tea, or coffee, and keep it up for 30 days, don't miss a morning and note the results for yourself. You can get Kruschen, a famous English formula made in the U. S. A., at the Downtown Drug Store or any drug store. You must be satisfied or money back. CONSTITUTION SUPERB! Note: for an occasional cathartic or purgative to relieve common constipation, we have there is nothing better than quick-acting Kruschen in larger doses—try it according to directions on the bottle.

SCHOOL REPORTS IN WAR BONDS GETTING BIGGER

Partial Report To Show Trend Growing as Late Figures Come in

The incomplete record of the sale of War Bonds and Stamps purchased by pupils in the rural and village schools, now on file in the office of the county superintendent, tells only part of the story. When the report was released, Superintendent W. J. Hilty made it plain that the figures covered only part of the subscriptions and explained that they were released only to give an idea of what the youngsters were doing toward the war effort.

That partial report showed the pupil investments at Madison Mills to be $105. The complete report and final report from this one school shows that for one week alone the purchases amounted to $106 and that the total subscriptions by the boys and girls, from the time the stamps and bonds were made available until school closed, amounted to $302. That is almost three times as much as this school was credited with in the partial report.

The situation was the same in the school throughout the system. The Madison Mills school report is not an exception but was cited by the superintendent as an example. Not all of the final reports are in yet but a survey has shown the definite trend, it was said.

The partial report gave a total of approximately $4,000 of War Bonds and Stamps purchased by the rural and village school pupils. The complete and final report, taking the Madison Mills school as a criterion, is expected to send the total into five figures.

Cubs Beaten By Reds, 10-1, For Charity

CHICAGO, May 28—(P)—Cincinnati's Reds are getting the notion, a little late, that they can win a ball game any time they feel like it.

If they feel like it again today against the Cubs, Ray Starr has his sixth victory of the year and the Reds stretch their winning streak to five. General Bill Lee is the Chicago pitcher.

Yesterday's 10-1 decision over the Cubs gave the Reds a chance to show they could hit on occasion and Bucky Walters a chance to prove that he could still pitch.

The Reds made 13 safeties, and scored seven times in the fourth, when Gee Walker hit a four-bagger with the bases loaded. Eddie Joost and Max Marshall each had a trio of hits.

The victory brought Walters' record up to four and four.

The game was played as the second half of a doubleheader making $10,455 for army-navy relief. Teams from Camp Grant and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station opened the afternoon, the sailors winning, 4 to 1.

Primary Purpose To Make Inexpensive Entertainment Available Close to Home

Harness racing will make its 1942 debut here on Saturday with a matinee program at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

The board and speed committee had a three-fold purpose in mind when the decision was reached about two weeks ago to sponsor the matinee.

First of all, a spokesman said, they wanted to give the people of this immediate section some entertainment close to home so they would not have to drive long distances on rationed tires or go without. Second, they wanted to give the horsemen who have had training stables here this winter an opportunity to "sharpen" their charges for the campaigns to come. And, third, they said a little money taken in at the gate could be used to good advantage in improving the training track around the outside of the regular racing strip with the addition of more cinders.

A member of the speed committee expressed confidence Thursday morning, after making up a tentative program, that there would be some "hot competition" and that the five races all would be well balanced. He warned that the size of the fields in the tentative program would not be taken to mean that there would be any "hippodrome" to the racing and added significantly that several trainers had declared their intentions of bringing horses from Wilmington and Hillsboro. These, however, were not included in the tentative program.

There will be five races of two heats each, making an afternoon's racing of 10 separate races. Between 25 and 35 horses are expected to face the starter.

The classes were made up, one of the speed committee said, on the basis on what the horses were capable of doing now and not on the basis of what they had done, their official records or what they were expected to do later on in the season. This method, he declared, would make for better racing and keener competition because some of the horses with the best records are not now up to as much as some of those with less formidable feats to their credit.

The committee spokesman said that trainers and horsemen at the Fairground had fallen in with the idea wholeheartedly and given "fine cooperation" in building the program.

The matinee races may not mean as much from a material point of view as regular meetings but, it was emphasized that the horsemen "will race harder to settle their many training season arguments than they will for big cash stakes."

The board and its speed committee agreed at the outset that since the matinee races were to be primarily an entertainment the admission price would be only nominal. They agreed on charging 25 cents at the outside gate with automobiles and children under 16 years of age free. Once inside the gate the grounds are wide open. There is to be no charge at the grandstand.

This will be the first time in years that matinee races have been offered here in the heart of this horse-loving section where once they were sporting fixtures for the summer season.

Both the board and the committee members have expressed curiosity concerning the turnout that will welcome the trotters and pacers for the holiday program. They are hoping to see the venerable grandstand packed to the rafters but frankly admit that they don't know just what to expect in these times of stress. They take the position, however, of having done their best to provide inexpensive entertainment close to home as part of their job in building wartime morale.

YANKEE HURLER GETS START TO HALL OF FAME

Tiny Bonham Wins Seventh Game in Row—Maybe He Can Hit 30 Wins

By JUDSON BAILEY

The most coveted pitching goal in the major leagues is 30 victories in a season. It is much more valuable, and a whole lot more difficult to obtain, than a no-hitter.

The feat hasn't been accomplished since Dizzy Dean did it for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1934 and it hasn't been done in the American League since 1931 when Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove won 31 for the Philadelphia Athletics.

After Bob Feller joined the navy last winter there didn't seem to be a pitcher anywhere likely to achieve the pinnacle this season—or next, either.

Yet, Ernie (Tiny) Bonham, big righthand ace of the New York Yankees, apparently has found the right trail and his chances look about as good as Feller's ever did.

Seventh Straight

Bonham bagged his seventh straight victory yesterday, 8-3, from the Philadelphia Athletics. He pitched an expert seven-hit game without allowing a walk.

The big fellow is no strikeout specialist. But his "forkball" baffles the batters and his control is amazing. In seven games this season he has walked only five batters.

He may not win 30 games, because there are only 24 weeks in a season and he may not get to work often enough. But at present he is right on the beam—approximately one-fourth of the victories in one-fourth of the season.

The Yanks gave Bonham a five-run boost in the fourth inning as they coasted to their 16th victory in 19 games.

The Boston Red Sox came out of a slump to overpower the Washington Senators, 10-1, in a night game.

Chicago's usually weak-hitting White Sox collected 7 hits at Cleveland, but had plenty of trouble taming the Indians, 9-7.

The St. Louis Browns backed up Johnny Niggeling with extra-base hitting to beat the Detroit Tigers, 5-2. Walt Juddich led the attack with a homer, a double and a single.

Dodgers Stretch Lead

The Brooklyn Dodgers increased their National League to six games by beating the Boston Braves, 4-1, with a three-run ninth-inning rally.

Bucky Walters pitched seven-hit ball as the Cincinnati Reds conquered the Chicago Cubs, 10-1.

The surging St. Louis Cardinals moved into second place slightly ahead of Boston by routing the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-3.

Bangtails To Leave And Harness Horses To Come in Saturday

Turf fans here, of whom there are many, will turn from the bangtails to the trotters and pacers, Saturday for the summer's sport.

Memorial Day marks the close of the annual spring meeting of running races at Beulah Park and the debut of the harness horses here at a holiday matinee program at the Fairground.

Beulah Park, only 30 miles away at Grove City, has been the mecca of Fayette County turf fans for years. Through the years they have come to consider it "our track" and every spring and fall they shuttle back and forth while the thoroughbreds are running.

Beulah Park will ring down the curtain on what the management has described as a "highly successful 25-day meeting" on Saturday.

The biggest and most colorful crowd of the season is expected to turn out Saturday for the grand finale and say farewell to the runners until they return on September 5 for a 19-day fall meeting.

Buck-Illini Game To Be In Cleveland

COLUMBUS, May 28—(P)—Cleveland alumni of Ohio State and Illinois will see a long-cherished hope come true next fall as grid teams from the schools meet in the first western conference game ever played there.

The November 14 game, originally scheduled for the Illinois Memorial Stadium, was shifted to Cleveland Municipal Stadium yesterday after the addition of a game with the Great Lakes Navy Training Station gave the Illini six home contests. Ten percent of gross receipts will go to the army and navy relief funds.

Too little, too late; too bad! There is still time to buy U. S. Defense Bonds and Stamps.

Brewers' Lead Stretched as Blues Beaten

(By The Associated Press)

The attempt of the Milwaukee Brewers to bolster their first place margin before taking on the challenging Kansas City Blues this week end is beginning to show progress.

Milwaukee picked up more ground last night, beating Louisville 4 to 3, and now leads the Blues by 2 1/2 games in their fight for American Association honors.

Kansas City, meantime, got few hits and even fewer walks off George Gill at Indianapolis and wound up a 5 to 0 shutout victim.

Minneapolis cut the Blues' second place margin to three games by defeating Columbus, 3 to 0, behind Owen Scheetz. Three Columbus errors gave Minneapolis a one-run lead in the opening inning. After that Scheetz and Harry Brecheen pitched on even terms until the ninth when the Millers got three hits to clinch victory.

Pitching also was the feature of the St. Paul-Toledo double headed. Toledo won the opener, 2 to 1. St. Paul the nightcap 3 to 0.

WARTIME NEEDS

CHANGE GREYHOUND SCHEDULES

EFFECTIVE WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3RD...

Greyhound buses will operate on new war-time schedules. This change in service is being made in order to cooperate to the fullest extent with the war-time plans of the Office of Defense Transportation. The purpose is to make every bus work full time—keeping vital traffic on the move.

America's war program has the right of way! The great majority of the people Greyhound is carrying today and intends to carry efficiently are selectees traveling to examination centers, fighting men on leave or furlough, war workers moving to their jobs, businessmen traveling on essential work. The trips they take are necessary to keep the war program rolling.

With increased service demanded for war production areas—and little increase in buses available—it is necessary to divert equipment to routes where it is most needed.

Many peace-time features are discontinued. Operating speeds are somewhat reduced. Express and Limited schedules are eliminated entirely. Second sections of regular schedules are being eliminated unless the buses carry a sufficient number of passengers. Greyhound schedules will be combined with those of other bus companies, when necessary.

Conservation of rubber is all-important—and Greyhound is taking every possible step to increase the big savings already effected. Today buses use only a fraction as much rubber as private cars per passenger, per mile—and they average more than 40,000 miles per tire.

We hope that these war-time changes will not cause you inconvenience, crowding or delay. But if you don't find travel as comfortable and easy as in normal times, please make allowances! The war effort comes first with Greyhound as it does with you!

You Can Help

by getting information about the new schedules before you travel—taking as little baggage as possible—traveling before or after the mid-summer rush period—taking your trip on mid-week days, leaving seats on week-ends for soldiers and war workers.

ed Red Army lines, firing wildly and shouting at the top of their lungs. In one such attack, 1,000 "psychologists" were left dead on the field.

German headquarters said flatly that Axis troops had crushed the Russians in an "outstanding victory" south of Kharkov and captured 165,000 prisoners.

The Red armies, however, declared they had thrown back two violent German assaults in the Izium-Barvenkova sector and killed more than 2,400 Nazis in the last 24 hours.

Soviet front-line dispatches said the Germans were being forced to yield ground in both the Izium-Barvenkova and Kharkov sectors, indicating that the Red armies held the initiative firmly on both those key battlefields of the Ukraine.

The Russians said Hitler's legions, blocked in their offensive of the southern flank, were trying to dig in on new defense lines but that repeated Soviet counterattacks were driving them back.

Japanese headquarters asserted today that Japanese troops, maximizing a 200-mile advance in 10 days, had captured China's "Gold Flower" city of Kinshwa, capital of the eastern Seaboard province of Chekiang, and thereby cut off one of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's vital supply routes.

Chekiang Province is strategically important as a potential springboard for an Allied offensive against Japan.

Chinese dispatches failed to confirm the Japanese claim. They asserted that Chinese defenders firmly entrenched on the outskirts of Kinshwa were holding their ground at last reports, but admitted that the city was in grave danger.

Far across China, in the southwest, Chinese dispatches reported that Chinese troops had flung Japanese invasion columns into headlong retreat and encircled the enemy at Lungling, Burma Road town west of the Salween River, recapturing two towns south of Lungling.

While Chinese and American "flying tigers" airmen bombed and machine-gunned the enemy overhead, Chinese ground troops inflicted "staggering losses" on the enemy in the Tengchong area 40 miles northwest of Lungling, dispatches said.

In the battle of Australia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Allied fliers had destroyed or damaged at least 200 Japanese aircraft in the last six weeks, including 35 bombers destroyed and 16 damaged.

United Nations headquarters said Allied interceptors tore into a squadron of 15 Japanese zero planes yesterday over the air-drome at Port Moresby, New Guinea, shooting down one and damaging six others.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, May 28.—(P)—Grain prices turned lower today, wheat, rye and soybeans leading a reaction that eliminated much of yesterday's late advance.

Losses amounted to about a cent a bushel in most cases at the extreme. Receipts of the first truck load of new wheat reported at Grandfield, Okla., reminded traders that the harvest movement is at hand, which accounted for some of the selling, and there was some hedging although terminal market receipts remained small.

Washington reports that a general federally-supervised system to control cash grain marketing may be adopted because of the scarcity of storage space unsettled the trade.

Wheat closed 3/4-1 cent lower than yesterday, July 1.20-1.20 1/2, Sept. 1.22 3/4-3/8; corn 3/4-5/8 down, July 87 1/2-94c, Sept. 90-90 1/2; oats 1 1/4-1 1/2 down; soybeans 3/4-1c lower; rye 3/4-1c lower.
